American Trumpeter Blog

I began the American Trumpeter blog with the understanding that publishing no longer follows the same rules it did for our teachers. I have been writing articles for online forums for well over a decade and have been slowly writing what I hoped would be a definitive text on trumpet pedagogy. Understanding my own limitations of time, and the fading hope for realizing any profit from publication, I am publishing these articles a few times a year to disseminate the ideas for my own students and students and colleagues around the world.

Assisted in editing for publication - Julian Wachner "Blue, Green, Red" for trumpet and organ. Published 2015 by E.C. Schirmer
